

DAILY BREEZE

What's Happening with our Retailers

Melinda Schroeder, Advertorial Writer

McNulty School of Irish Dance

From humble beginnings in Chicago, the McNulty School of Irish Dance has grown into one of the largest, most active dance schools in the Midwest, and has recently branched into the greater Los Angeles area offering much more than your average dance class. The McNulty School of Irish Dance, Los Angeles aims to reconnect children young and old to their cultural heritage and exemplifies this passion in their upcoming week long Irish Camp.

In addition to traditional soft and heavy shoe Irish step and Ceili dancing, McNulty's Irish Camp hosts hours of cultural education. As Ireland's story has been felt for generations in the music of her people, campers learn traditional Irish songs, and begin lessons on the Irish tin whistle and bodhrán drum. Students in Irish Camp are entertained by interactive activities teaching history and geography, learn Celtic mythology and have daily Irish language lessons. The McNulty School of Irish Dance Los Angeles cherishes the cultivation of Irish dance and art, and as a non-competitive, performance-based school, values the innate joy and pride felt in ancestral connection.

Irish Camp runs June 23 through 27, and ongoing adult, teen, youth, pre-school, and "mommy and me," Irish dance classes are offered in Rancho Palos Verdes, El Segundo, and San Pedro. Visit www.IrishDancingLosAngeles.com, email McNultyIrishDancers.LA@gmail.com, or call 614/636-2544 for information.